REVIEW OF CONGRESS.

Tariff the Absorbing Topic of the Session.

HOW THE BILL BECAME A LAW.

the Four Appropriation Bills, Which Filled the Previous Session, Were Passed-Amended In Some Important Particulars-Arbitration Rejected.

WASHINGTON, July 26.-The extraardinary session of congress which has just closed was called by President Mc-Kinley two days after he took the oath Attorney General Monnett After the of office on the steps of the capitol. It met in pursuance to his prodamation at noon, March 15. The special message transmitted by him to both houses on the opening day was brief. It explained the deficiencies in the revenues. reviewed the bond issues of the last administration and urged congress promptly to correct the then existing condition by passing a tariff bill that would supply ample revenue for the support of the government and the liquidation of the public debt. No other subject of legislation was mentioned in the message and the tariff bill has been the all-absorbing feature of the session. The Republican members the preceding house had been at work throughout the shor session which ended March 4 giving thearings and preparing the bil which was to be submitted at the extra session. Three bill was reported to the house by the ways and means committee, and 13 days later, March 31, 1897, it passed the house.

It went to the senate, was referred to committee on finance, and the Republican members of that committee spent a month and three days in its consideration and in preparing the amendments which were submitted to the senate May 7, and exactly two months later, July 7, it passed the senate with 872 amendments. The bill then went to conference, where, after a ten-day truggle on July 17, a complete agreeent was reached by which the senate eded from 118 amendments and the ouse from 511. The others, 243 in umber, were compromised. The conerence report was adopted by the house July 19 at the conclusion of 12 ours' continuous debate. The report was taken up in the senate July 20 and adopted July 24, The tariff bill was signed by the president the same day. Congress did not devote its attention entirely to the tariff, though it did subordinate everything else to this one measure. The four appropriation bills which failed on March 4 last in themtural, the Indian and the general deficiency, were introduced and passed by the house in the identical form in which they existed at the time of their failure of enactment into law at the preceding congress, but they were amended in some important particulars by the senate, and when they finally became laws contained more or less new legislation of interest and import-

The general deficiency carried a provision accepting the invitation to take part in the Paris exposition in 1900, and appropriated $25,000 to defray preliminary expenses and appropriated 150,000 for a new immigrant station at New York, to replace the one destroyed by fire. By far the most important piece of new legislation in the bill, however, was that limiting the cost of armor plate for the three new battleships to 300 per ton. In case the secretary of the navy should find it impossible to make contracts for armor within the price fixed he was authorized by this provision to take steps to establish government armor factory of sufficient capacity to make the armor. In executing this authority he must preare a description, and plans and specifications of the land, buildings and machinery suitable for the factory, adertise for proposals and report to congress at its next session.

In the Indian bill, after a severe struggle in both houses, it was decided o not help sectarian schools after the appropriations already made rangout, except where non-sectarian schools cannot be provided for and then not over 40 per cent of the amount appropriated in 1895.

In the sundry civil bill the most imortant new provision was that susending the order of President Cleveand setting aside about 21,000,000 acres as forest reservations. The Republican leaders of the house ecided at the opening of the session to pursue a policy of inaction in order to throw the responsibility for delaying the tariff bill upon the senate, and, therefore, the committees were not annonnced until the close of the session and only urgent matters were consid-Fifty thousand dollars were appropriated for the relief of American citizens in Cuba at the solicitation of the president; $200,000 was appropriated for the relief of the Mississippi flood sufferers; a resolution was passed authorizing the secretary of the navy to transport supplies contributed for the relief of the poor and famishing in india, and $50,000 were appropriated for the entertainment and expense of the delegates to the Universal Postal

A HOT INSURANCE WAR.

Combine In This State.

Toledo, July 26 .- Attorney General Frank S. Monnett is in the city securing evidence against the combine of insurance companies which he will prosecute under Ohio laws. Asked as to what effect the fight would have on the insurance combine in the state, he said:

"One agent stated that if the prosecution continued the insurance companies would cause the greatest panic Ohio ever saw. He said they would withdraw from the state, and that eastern capitalists, who had been loaning on their policies, would foreclose and cause a panie in money circles."

Mr. Monnett was told, as he has been of the waysand means committee of for the last 30 days, that the insurance companies were strong enough to cut him 10,000 votes in the state election if he did not let prosecuting the combination.

He said: "Testimony now in the days after the session opened the tariff hands of the court shows that the insured in the state paid out $7,480,000 for insurance, and received a fraction over $2,000,000 in losses. The gross profits were thus upward of $4,000,000, which is within a small amount of the expense of the state administration, including appropriations for five asylums and other public buildings. A question of $7,000,000 paid by property holders for fire insurance companies is important enough to have free competition.

"One of the trust companies paid to stockholders upward of 45 per cent. After the trust was organized in the state, insurance companies in smaller cities raised the rate 25 per cent. Many insurance companies, like other companies, in reducing rates on banking, raised the rates on insurance. Competition would reduce all matters to a normal basis of profit, the same as other investments.

AKRON, O., July 26.-Word has been received in this city which alleges that an order has been izsued by the postoffice department at Washington removing Postmaster W. B. Postoffice Inspectors McGinniss and Heathman were here two months ago, and it was on their finding that Dobson was removed. The nature of their report has not been made public. SAN FRANCISCO, July 26.—The desire of the gold-struck throng to reach the diggings in the Klondyke district resembles for all the world the craze of westerners to reach California in the "days of old and the land of gold." There is little or no method in this longing of the masses to reach the Eldorado in the great unknown territory of the northwest.

People who have had no experience in mining or have undergone no hardships incident to such a journey as will follow a trip to the Yukon country are every nerve to secure funds necessary on which to make the trip. Many are making sacrifices in order to visit the land that promises so much.

Every steamship office in the city is literally overrun with people seeking information concerning the Klondyke country. Those who have the money do not hesitate to pay for the passage, trusting in many instances to good luck to give them food on which to subsist during the coming winter.

WASHINGTON, July 26. - Speaker Reed in making up his committees followed the list of the committees of the last house very closely. With one exception all the chairmen of committees of the last house who were re-elected to this congress were given their old positions.

Ohio, which had only one chairmanship in the last congress (General Grosvenor of the special committee on Chickamauga park) has three regular chairmanships in this house-Taylor, elections committee No. 1; Grosvenor, mines and mining, and Danford, on immigration and naturalization.

The state is well represented also on many of the important committees. Grosvenor is on ways and means; Northway, on appropriations; Southard, on coinage. weights and measures; Shattuc, on both railways and canals and Pacific railroads; Bromwell, on postoffice and postroads and pensions; Fenton and Lentz, on military affairs; Southard is also on military affairs; Burton is on rivers and harbors and on improvements of the Mississippi river; Weaver is on election committee No. 2 and war claims; Brown is on claims, and the Democratic members from the state are well represented in the minorities of the committee.

END OF THE SENATE.

That Body Quit Five Hours After Passage of Tariff Bill.

Washington, July 26.—The senate adjourned sine die at 9 o'clock Saturday night, five hours after the president signed the tariff bill. That measure passed the senate, according to agreement, at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, by a vote of ayes 40, nays 30. The majority was exactly the same as on the passage of the bill in the senate the first time, although Mr. Stewart of Nevada voted for the bill Saturday, while he refrained from voting when the bill originally passed the senate.

Mr. McEnery remained true to his protection ideas and voted for the bill. With the three exceptions of Stewart, Jones and McEnery, all the affirmative votes were cast by Republicans. Teller, Allen, Butler, Kyle and Pettigrew did not vote and were not paired.

WON'T ALLOW KANSAS COAL

A Labor Leader Tells When Coal Becomes Non-Union.

PITTSBURG, Kan., July 26.-A lead. ing labor man, who has been national president of one of the greatest labor organizations in the United States, said

"The operators must not think they can smuggle coal out of Kansas to go into strike territory. It is one of the doctrines of organized labor that whenever one set of men commence to do work that is to the injury of organized labor, the work becomes scab work. The miners of Southern Kansas are union men. As long as they mine coal for Kansas and territory, which they have been accastomed to supply, they are occupying neutral ground and are not interfering.

"When they mine coal to be used in territory usually supplied by miners who are striking they become in the eyes of organized labor what we call scabs. It makes no difference if the Burlington coal, which was transferred in Kansas City a few days ago, was for the use of the Burlington or to be furnished to other railroads. If it is used by the Burlington in territory that has been supplied from points in Illinois where there is a strike the coal was non-union as soon as it got into strike territory."

LABOR LEADERS' CONFERENCE.

Debs Arrived In Wheeling Today, For the Meeting Tomorrow.

WHEELING, July 26. - Eugene V. Debs was the first of the labor leaders to arrive in Wheeling to attend the conference of executive officers of the various labor organizations of the country, called by President Ratchford of clamoring for passage and straining the miners, to consider ways and means to bring success to the coal sirike. He came from Fairmont this afternoon and was met by a committee on reception appointed by the Ohio Valley Trades and Labor assembly. There will be a massmeeting tonight, to be addressed by Debs.

Advices received by local labor leadres are to the effect that nearly all of the executive officials of national labor organizations will come to Wheeling for tomorrow's conference. As to the outcome of the conference there is much uncertainty, though it is claimed that the result will be a calling upon the firemen, brakemen and conductors to refuse to haul trains carrying West Virginia coal. There is no hope of ability to have the railroad engineers join in this movement, in fact the engineers' brotherhood will not be represented at the conference.

"It is not true that any municipality in West Virginia has interfered with labor organizations in any shape. All organizers who have come into this city have been allowed the greatest liberty of speech. I believe in the right of labor to organize for mutual advancement.

"I have received a copy of the reso-lutions passed by a labor organization in Washington, D. C., in which I am denounced as a coward and my action as bloodthirsty. The action of the Washington organizaton is contemptible, because it has not one scintilla of truth upon which to base it."

PITTSBURG, July 26. - The long-threatened march on the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal company's mines was said to have begun from McKeesport at midnight. Sheriff Lowry was advised early in the afternoon of the movement and sent out for his deputies, which he has had enrolled. With these he proposes to stop all depredations on the company's property and see that the miners were not molested.

Sheriff Lowry went out to the mines on a special train last night with 85 deputies, armed with Winchesters and revolvers. The miners say they merely mean to do missionary work among DeArmitt's men.

E. V. Debs, M. D. Ratchford and several other orators, it is said, will be at DeArmit's mines by Thursday to hold meetings. The place has not been selected yet.

The arbitrators, striving to settle the strike by peaceable means, will find more harmony among the operators if the New York and Cleveland mines close down, and a request will be made to Mr. DeArmit to this effect pending negotiations. WON'T ALLOW KANSAS COAL

A Labor Leader Tells When Coal Becomes Non-Union.

PITTSBURG, Kan., July 26.-A leading labor man, who has been national president of one of the greatest labor organizations in the United States, said to-day:

"The operators must not think they can smuggle coal out of Kansas to go into strike territory. It is one of the

doctrines of organized labor that whenever one set of men commence to do work that is to the injury of organized DE ARMIT USING GUNS labor, the work becomes scab work. The miners of Southern Kansas are union men. As long as they mine coal for Kansas and territory, which they have been accastomed to supply, they are occupying neutral ground and are not interfering. "When they mine coal to be used in territory usually supplied by miners who are striking they become in the eyes of organized labor what we call scabs. It makes no difference if the Burlington coal, which was transferred in Kansas City a few days ago, was for the use of the Burlington or to be furnished to other railroads. Debs Arrived In Wheeling Today, For the Meeting Tomorrow.

WHEELING, July 26. - Eugene V. Debs was the first of the labor leaders to arrive in Wheeling to attend the conference of executive officers of the various labor organizations of the country, called by President Ratchford of the miners, to consider ways and means to bring success to the coal sirike. He came from Fairmont this afternoon and was met by a committee on reception appointed by the Ohio Valley Trades and Labor assembly. There will be a massmeeting tonight, to be addressed by Debs.

Advices received by local labor leadres are to the effect that nearly all of the executive officials of national labor organizations will come to Wheeling for tomorrow's conference. As to the outcome of the conference there is much uncertainty, though it is claimed that the result will be a calling upon the firemen, brakemen and conductors to refuse to haul trains carrying West Virginia coal. There is no hope of ability to have the railroad engineers last house very closely. With one ex- join in this movement, in fact the engineers' brotherhood will not be repre-

Gov. Atkinson's Reply to the Charge of Labor Leaders.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 26.-Governor Atkinson's attention has been called to the charge made by the strike organizers that free speech was not allowed in West Virginia. The governor said :

"It is not true that any municipality in West Virginia has interfered with labor organizations in any shape. All organizers who have come into this city have been allowed the greatest liberty of speech. I believe in the right of labor to organize for mutual advancement.

"I have received a copy of the resolutions passed by a labor organization in Washington, D. C., in which I am denounced as a coward and my action bloodthirsty. The action of the Washington organizaton is contemptible, because it has not one scintilla of truth upon which to base it."

PITTSBURG, July 26. - The long-threatened march on the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal company's mines was said to have begun from McKeesport at midnight. Sheriff Lowry was advised early in the afternoon of the movement and sent out for his deputies. which he has had enrolled. With these he proposes to stop all depredations on the company's property and see that the miners were not molested.

Sheriff Lowry went out to the mines on a special train last night with 85 deputies, armed with Winchesters and revolvers. The miners say they merely mean to do missionary work among DeArmitt's men. E. V. Debs, M. D. Ratchford and several other orators, it is said, will be at DeArmit's mines by Thursday to hold meetings. The place has not been selected yet.

The arbitrators, striving to settle the strike by peaceable means, will find more harmony among the operators if the New York and Cleveland mines close down, and a request will be made to Mr. DeArmit to this effect pending negotiations. STRIVING TO PLEASE.

THE ADVANCE AGENT TELLS HOW HIS FRIENDS OBSERVED THIS RULE.

A Manager of a Pyrotechnic Show Who Didn't Want to Disappoint His Audience-A Monument Which Proves That His Efforts Were Appreciated.

"I always strive to please," remarked the dramatic editor, as he scratched the words "big thing" out of the advance notice he was writing and substituted "megatherian aggregation."

"Thanks, I am sure," said the advance agent, as he read over the ten lines the dramatic critic was giving to him, and carefully put back into his pocket the half column notice he had first drawn on the d. c.

"I presume," smiled the d. c., "that you always strive to please, too, don't you?"

"Not always"—in a semidisappointed tone-"but I used to have a friend who did. He really was the most self denying chap I ever saw, and what he wouldn't do to please an audience wasn't worth doing."

"Where is he now?"

"Dead." "Dead?"

"Yes, it killed him. It was this way: He was in the pyrotechnic branch of the dramatic art and used to give shows at one of those imitation Coney Islands to be found on nearly every sand bar in nearly ever river tributary to the Mississippi. He had been the originator of the fireworks feature at this place, and his phenomenal success had made him so proud that he would sooner have died than had a failure. One Fourth of July he was going to give the grandest display of his life, and the feature in the biggest letters on the bill was a set piece, 100 feet high, with an enormous balloon loaded with fireworks to go up from the top as a grand finale. There were ten times as many people there that night as there had ever been, and my friend was feeling so good you could see it in his walk.

"Everybody was on edge, too, for the grand blaze of glory the management had been advertising for weeks, and when, promptly at the hour of 10 o'clock, my friend stepped forth like a peacock to set off the great display with his own hand there was a round of applause, followed by a dead silence as the audience sat breathless watching for the burst of blazing glory. But somehow it didn't burst. The professor fired the train and retreated to a safe place, but the powder wouldn't burn. It fizzled and went out instead. Once, twice, thrice, it fizzled, sputtered and went out, and then the crowd began to growl and guy, as crowds always the professor began to get wild.

"Several other attempts to set the piece off were no more successful, and at last, with a smothered scream of crazy rage, he shot up the ladder of the tower to its very top, where he had a platform stored with all sorts of inflammable and explosive things arranged to go off at the proper time. He stood there a moment silhouetted against the sky, the crowd indulging in gibes and jeers, with now and then a threat as to what he might expect if he would only come down to the ground. This was his time to show what he could do to please his audience, and in a minute, and before anybody had any idea what he would do next, he caught up an armful of the explosives about him, fastened them to his clothes and hung wreaths and rings over his neck and shoulders, and, setting the whole thing afire, he swung out into the air in the balloon, which was already tugging at its anchor.

As the balloon shot up it was a terrific sight, and the poor devil's shrieks added to the intensity of the scene, already lurid with red and blue lights, while the air was filled with all manner of bursting bombs and crashing explosives. Women fainted, men ran helplessly about shouting, and still the balloon swept upward with its flery freight and passenger, until, when it had reached a point 1,000 feet above the earth, it caught fire and the whole burning mass shot like a blazing ball straight to the ground.

"You will be safe in betting those people never saw such an exhibition as that before, nor will ever again in all probability, and when it was over," concluded the agent, "the audience seemed to realize what the professor had done to please them, and they chipped in and built him a monument where he fell, having on it, besides his name and the proper dates, no other inscription except 'He strived to please.' "

The dramatic critic was at least half a minute in recovering his speech after the recital of this remarkable tale, and before he could ask any questions the advance agent had folded his tent like a circus and stolen away to the office of the next dramatic critic he had to call upon. - Washington Star.

DIAMOND.

East Liverpool,

But Liverpool Won Fairly From Wellsville.

REFUSED TO ALLOW AN UMPIRE

The Visitors Were Not, Permitted to Select a Representative, and Prepared to Leave the Field Because of a Decision at First Base, but Returned to the Diamond.

The crack Wellsville ball team Saturday afternoon met defeat at the hands of a patched up team from this city by a score of 11 to 5.

The feeling was intense, and fights were numerous, but the Liverpool boys were accompanied by at least 200 rooters who were prepared to see fair play. Three small boys from this city rooted so hard for their home team that an old man slapped each one. The man in turn was promptly knocked down.

The kicking began before the contest when the Wellsville manager refused to allow the Liverpool team the privilege of choosing one of the umpires.

Liverpool went to the bat first, and scored one run on a hit by Kennedy and an error by Collins. Wellsville was shut out in their half, and Liverpool scored another in the second on an error by McShane and a hit by two on a hit by pitched ball and three hits. Liverpool was shut out in the third, and after Heakin had knocked a foul ball over the backstop, a soaked ball was sent in to McCurran to pitch. He refused to use it, but was informed he would have to or the game would stop. In this inning errors by Davis, Lynch and Reed netted the Wellsville team two runs. In the fourth Liverpool secured three runs on two hits, a hit by pitched ball and a life. Wellsville was shut out in their half.

The fifth inning opened with a threebase hit by D. McCurran, but he was called out by Umpire Thompson for not touching first base. There was a kick for fully 20 minutes, and the Liverpool boys started for a street car but were prevailed upon to remain and determined not to carry over a piece of it. play the game out after Tolbert had taken the place of Umpire Thompson. They scored in this inning on a hit and an error by Hester. Wellsville received a goose egg, and Liverpool scored again in the sixth on two hits. Wellsville got another goose egg, and after Davis had bargain prices. made a two base hit and Lynch reached first on being hit by a pitched ball, Baxter hit to right field for a home run. Wellsville was shut out again, and both teams were gooseegged in the eighth. In the ninth each scored a run and the agony was over. Wellsville was rein- 29c. forced by Liverpool players.

The fielding of D. McCurran and T. Kennedy was of the phenomenal order, and it was an impossibility to hit the ball past them. Each man pulled down base hits, and spoiled all chances of Wellsville to win the game. Their fielding was undoubtedly the best ever seen on a Wellsville or Liverpool ball ground.

Philip McShane played a good game at short for Wellsville, but Hester did not do his usual good work, although he made several fine stops. The Liverpool boys hit Turner at will, while Wellsville secured but two hits off of McCurran after the third inning. It is probable that all talk of a game but they are not in the same class with the semi-professionals of this city.

The fielding of D. McCurran and T. Kennedy was of the phenomenal order, and it was an impossibility to hit the ball past them. Each man pulled down base hits, and spoiled all chances of Wellsville to win the game. Their fielding was undoubtedly the best ever seen on a Wellsville or Liverpool ball ground.

Philip McShane played a good game at short for Wellsville, but Hester did not do his usual good work, although he made several fine stops.

The Liverpool boys hit Turner at will, while Wellsville secured but two hits off Ohio. of McCurran after the third inning. It is probable that all talk of a game

Officers Cohagen and Morgan succeeded yesterday in capturing Paddy Patterson and Bill Whitney after a chase which lasted until midnight.

A short time ago a horse and buggy were stolen in Steubenville and taken w Washington, Pa. Later Contractor Dolan was held up and robbed. One night last week the house of Thomas Schaffer, Hill was burglarized and a aty of musical instruments taken. Three rocking chairs were also stolen from the veranda at the residence of George Murdock. They were afterward recovered by Officer Cohagen.

Suspicion rested on Patterson and Whitney, who were only a short time ago released from the penitentiary, and Chief Warren hearing they were over the river arranged to capture them. In company with Constable Thorn and Detective Moore he crossed by the upper ferry, while Officers Cohagen, Morgan and Mick crossed at Eighteenth street and met them at Yager's. There it was found the men had slept in the coal mine Saturday night, but had gone with the dawn. Disgusted the police returned. Officers Morgan and Cohagen did not give up the chase, but kept at it during the remainder of the day, and at midnight located their men fast asleep in a were locked up.

The Doucet Skirt.

The doucet skirt shirred on fine cords officer had passed. Can it be that around the waist, the shirring extending below the hips, is a popular feature of summer frocks. In organdie this fashion is particularly adaptable. A pretty "summer girl," who looked as if she had stepped out of a picture at a wedding in the country recently, had an organdie with a white ground, powdered with tiny pink rosebuds, the skirt made in this way and worn over a white taffeta slip. The waist had a little fullness gathered on the right shoulder and under the arm, the folds being brought across the breast diagonally and fastened with a ruffle on the left side, forming a curve around the collarless neck, which was left a little bare, the to see the riders as they made the turn organdie forming a sort of bolero, which to start on the return trip. Andre, the was drawn tightly across the figure and Salineville man, broke his chain and the waist defined by a high draped belt. The sleeves were made without being gathered and drawn tightly around the arms, except at the top, where a smart looking puff accentuated the shoulders. With this pretty frock was worn a leghorn hat tilted over on the side by a cluster of pink roses. Roses also formed a garniture on top, with loops of black velvet ribbon forming an aigret on one side. - New York Tribune.

Fireproof Rope.

Canadian and Italian asbestus will find a serious competitor in the blue asbestus recently discovered in the Cape Colony, since the South African product is less than half as heavy and furnishes fibers considerably finer and longer than any other. The South African fiber has been worked into webs, which are but "Look here," he said in his blunt little inferior to these made of vegetable fashion. 'I like you and your references fiber and are absolutely fireproof. Twine, cord and rope made of this blue asbestus will not only resist fire, but also most of the known chemicals, corrosive vapors and atmospheric influences. These qualities will open a new field for the employment of asbestus fabrics in chemical laberatories and for the calking of chemical apparatus.

In order to test the resistance of the new material a blue asbestus rope of about three-fourths of an inch in diameter was weighted at one end with 220 pounds and exposed to a constant flame from a large gas jet, so that the rope for a considerable length was surrounded "If I want you to go, I'll just have by fire. The cord only broke after 22 one of the clerks put a note on your desk hours. Still it was a trifle lighter than a rope of the same diameter made of Russian hemp. Compared with a new hemp rope, the asbestus rope has twothirds of its strength, but as the ropes get older the proportion is altered in favor of asbestus ropes, since they suffer but very little from the influences of the atmosphere.

Another novel application of this material is the working of blue asbestus fiber into mattresses for hospitals. They are cooler in summer and warmer in winter than those made either of animal hair or vegetable fiber, and no vermin can live in this mattress. Experiments are now being made of working this fiber into cloth for firemen's apparel. Of course the long fiber of blue asbestús can also be employed for all the uses to which white asbestus has been put heretofore. While a trifle more expensive, its superior qualities made it well worth the difference.-Philadelphia Record.

The cause of Ferguson's death was the inundation of the pericardial cavity, which impeded the action of the heart, which in plain English means that the cavity surrounding the heart was punctured and flooded to such an extent that the heart was prevented from beating. Dodging the Question.

It is dangerous to possess a reputation for superior knowledge or wisdom. It is hard to live up to it. Next in importance to knowing everything perhaps is to be ranked the ability to conceal one's ignorance.

'Brown," said Jones, "Smith and I, here, have had a dispute and have agreed to leave the decision to you. Which is right-'Tomorrow is Friday,' or 'Tomorrow will be Friday?' "

"Today is Saturday, isn't it?" said Brown, after some reflection.

"Then neither one of you is right." And he waved them aside. - Youth's Companion.

If the people of South America will but recognize the importance of the reciprocity features of the tariff law they will loose no time in letting down the tariff bars and allowing the commercial interests of this country the advantage the southern republics can have in the playing ball at Rock Spring.

It asked sufficient protection to allow the American to compete with the European in our own market, and that protection was given. East Liverpool may not boom, but it will grow. TOO MUCH FOREIGN STOCK

To Make the Tariff Bill Felt at Once.

The passage of the bill was so confidently expected here that the news created little excitement. Everybody was pleased because everybody wanted that crockery schedule and they had received just what they asked. The question of wages was at once raised, and the opinion was general that it would not be long until the operative potters were at work on the old scale.

The NEWS REVIEW today interviewed a large number of manufacturers, and each expressed the same sentiment. Stocks in New York are large, and as soon as the importers sell some of the vast quantity of ware on hand, prices will go up and the American will begin to receive some benefit from the law. It is not believed here that it would be safe to advance prices for several months. By that time the importers' stocks will be broken, and the local firms can push forward with their fall goods. It will require at least six months, the manufacturers say, to have the market in such condition as to warrant an increase.

It is not generally believed here that the importers are thinking of increased prices for the early fall trade. In fact, they know the New Yorkers have no intention just now of doing anything of that sort. They want to keep a grip on the market as long as possible, and to be successful they are compelled to offer inducements in prices. While it is generally conceded that the presence of immense quantities of imported ware will seriously affect the market for a time everybody believes there is a good time coming, and coming very soon. It cannot be long de-

The Brotherhood made a proposition to the manufacturers, and we are certainly not going back on the proposition. It asks the restoration of the 121/2 per cent within 30 days after the passage of the tariff bill, which passed the senate Saturday afternoon, and we hope that before that time arrives everything will be settled satisfactorily to all parties concerned."

SAM MARTIN IS THE VICTIM

The Restaurant Man Gave Attorney A.W. Stevenson Some Money to Lend With Real Estate as Security, and it Now Appears That the Papers Were as Nicely Forged as the Notes Discovered Last

Another chapter disclosing the operations of Attorney A. W. Stevenson came to light Saturday evening when Samnel J. When Stevenson was called to face Hon. David Boyce after the discovery of the forged notes at the First National bank, he declared with earnestness that the $940 represented the whole of his forgeries. It has since developed that not only has the Martin matter come to disturb his peace of mind, but a number of men connected with business and financial affairs in this community are going over their papers and closely scanning and investigating signatures. Whether other forgeries will appear can be told within the next few days.

The passage of the tariff bill is an assured fact, and all will rejoice that it is out of the way. The bill will compel a rise in prices. Most dealers have accustomed their minds to that, and little trouble is anticipated in getting the advance. Last year's stock will be offered at last year's prices. A Procession of Worms.

In some of the Hungarian forests and in the pine woods of Norway there exists a tiny, wormlike insect called the sciara, of the genus tipula. During the month of July or early in August they gather together in large numbers, preparatory to migrating in march of food or for change of condition. When setting out on this journey, they stick themselves together by means of some glutinous matter and form a huge serpent-like mass, often reaching a length of between 40 and 50 feet and several inches in thickness. As the sciara is only on an average about three thirtyseconds of an inch in length, with no appreciable breadth whatever, the number required to compose a continuous line of the size above mentioned is almost incalculable. Their pace is, of course, very slow, and upon meeting they will either writhe over or around it, sometimes breaking into two bodies for this purpose.

M. Guerin-Meneville, a celebrated French naturalist, says that if the rear portion of this wonderful snakelike procession be brought into contact with the insects will keep moving round in that circle for hours without apparently rader" on their journey. NO ACTION ON MESSAGE.

Recommendation Sidetracked.

Washington, July 26.—President Mc-Died at Markleton Early This Kinley's message to congress, sent as soon as the tariff bill passed the senate, was responded to in the house by the rassage of C. W. Stone's bill, providing for such a commission. The Senate re-NO TIME SET FOR THE FUNERAL ferred both the message and the house bill to the committee on finance. The message says:

lo the Congress of the United States:

In my message convening the congress la extraordinary session I called attention to a single subject-that of providing revenue adequate to meet the reasonable and proper expenses of the government. I believed that to be the most pressing subject for settlement then.

A bill to provide the necessary revenues for the government has already passed the house of representatives and the senate and awaits executive action.

Another question of very great importance is that of the establishment of our currency and banking system on a better basis, which I commented upon in my inaugural address in the following words:

Our financial system needs some revision; our money is all good now, but its value must not further be threatened. It should all be put upon an enduring basis, not subject to easy attack nor its stability subject to doubt or dispute.
"The several forms of our paper money offer, in my judgment, a constant embar-rassment to the government and imperil a safe balance in the treasury." Nothing was settled more clearly at the late national election than the determina-tion upon the part of the people to reep their currency stable in value and equal to that of the most advanced nations of The soundness of our currency is nowhere questioned. No loss can occur to its holders. It is the system which should be simplified and strengthened, keeping our money just as good as it is now with less expense to the government and the people.

The sentiment of the country is strongly

in favor of early action by congress in this direction, to revise our currency laws and remove them from partisan con-

A notable assembly of business men, with delegates from 29 states and territories, was held at Indianapolis in January of this year. The financial situation commanded their earnest attention, and, after a two days' session, the convention recommended to congress the appointment of a monetary commission.

I commend this report to the considera-ation of congress. The authors of the re-port recommend a commission "to make a thorough investigation of the monetary affairs and needs of this country in all relations and aspects, and to make proper suggestions as to any evils found to exist and the remedies therefor.'

This subject should receive the attention of congress at its special session. It ought not to be postponed until the reguar session.

I, therefore, urgently recommend that a special commission be created, non-partisan in its character, to be composed of well-informed citizens of different parties who will command the confidence of congress and the country because of their special fitness for the work, whose duty it shall be to make recommendations of whatever changes in our present banking and currency laws may be found necessary and expedient, and to report their conclusions on or before the first day of November next, in order that the same may be transmitted by me to congress for its consideration at its first regular session.

It is to be hoped that the report thus made will be so comprehensive and sound as to receive the support of all parties and

At all events such a report cannot fail to be of value to the executive branch of the government, as well as to those charged with public legislation, and to greatly assist in the establishment of an improved system of finance.

WILLIAM MCKINLEY. CLOSING SESSION OF HOUSE.

The Currency Commission Bill Passed Refore Final Adjournment.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The house adjourned finally at 9 o'clock Saturday night. After convening at noon the house suspended work until 3:30.

Major Pruden, the president's executive clerk, announced a message from the president, and the secretary of the senate afterward announced the adoption of the conference report on the tariff bill.

The Republican side of the house broke into a storm of applause that arose and swept the galieries. The bill was carried to the speaker's rostrum and laid on his desk. Private Secretary Hines handed the speaker a pen, with which Mr. Reed immediately affixed his signature. Mr. Dingley, the floor leader of the majority, then presented from the ways and means committee a resolution for a final adjournment. Mr. Grosvenor (Rep., O.) in replying said that he deemed this a proper occasion to congratulate the country upon the auspicious closing of this congress.

The resolution was then adopted without division, and the speaker laid before the house the special message of the president for a currency commission. The Stone currency commission bill was then taken up and passed, 124 to 99.

Chaldean Weapons.

The analysis of Berthelot not only shows that the Chaldean weapons, ornaments and tools of 5,000 or 6,000 years ago were of pure copper, but that iron, silver and gold were known. The copper age preceded that of bronze, which appeared later in both Egypt and Chaldea. It is further noted, moreover, that the form of hatchets with handles, the process of manufacture and even the practical uses were the same for the pure copper hatchets of Chaldea and the prehistoric hatchets of Europe.

NO ACTION ON MESSAGE. Recommendation Sidetracked.

Washington, July 26.—President Mc-Kinley's message to congress, sent as soon as the tariff bill passed the senate, was responded to in the house by the rassage of C. W. Stone's bill, providing for such a commission. The Seriate re-NO TIME SET FOR THE FUNERAL ferred both the message and the house bill to the committee on finance. The message says:

lo the Congress of the United States:

In my message convening the congress la extraordinary session I called attention to a single subject-that of providing revenue adequate to meet the reasonable and proper expenses of the government. Miss Ella Frederick died this morning I believed that to be the most pressing subject for settlement then.

A bill to provide the necessary revenues for the government has already passed the house of representatives and the senate and awaits executive action.

Another question of very great importance is that of the establishment of our currency and banking system on a better basis, which I commented upon in my inaugural address in the following words:

Our financial system needs some revision; our money is all good now, but its value must not further be threatened. It should all be put upon an enduring basis, not subject to easy attack nor its stability subject to doubt or dispute.

"The several forms of our paper money offer, in my judgment, a constant embar rassment to the government and imperil a safe balance in the treasury." Nothing was settled more clearly at the tion upon the part of the people to Yeep their currency stable in value and equal to that of the most advanced nations of the world. The soundness of our currency is nowhere questioned. No loss can occur to its holders. It is the system which should be simplified and strengthened, keeping our money just as good as it is now with less expense to the government and the people.

The sentiment of the country is strongly

in favor of early action by congress in this direction, to revise our currency laws and remove them from partisan con-

A notable assembly of business men, with delegates from 29 states and terri-tories, was held at Indianapolis in January of this year. The financial situation commanded their earnest attention, and, after a two days' session, the convention recommended to congress the appointment of a monetary commission.

I commend this report to the considera-ation of congress. The authors of the report recommend a commission "to make a thorough investigation of the monetary affairs and needs of this country in all relations and aspects, and to make proper suggestions as to any evils found to exist and the remedies therefor."

This subject should receive the attention of congress at its special session. It ought not to be postponed until the regu-

I, therefore, urgently recommend that a special commission be created, non-partisan in its character, to be composed of well-informed citizens of different parties who will command the confidence of congress and the country because of their special fitness for the work, whose duty it shall be to make recommendations of whatever changes in our present banking and currency laws may be found neces sary and expedient, and to report their conclusions on or before the first day of November next, in order that the same may be transmitted by me to congress for its consideration at its first regular

At all events such a report cannot fail to be of value to the executive branch of the government, as well as to those charged with public legislation, and to greatly assist in the establishment of an improved system of finance.
WILLIAM MCKINLEY.

CLOSING SESSION OF HOUSE.

The Currency Commission Bill Passed Refore Final Adjournment.

WASHINGTON, July 26.-The house adjourned finally at 9 o'clock Saturday night. After convening at noon the house suspended work until 3:30. Major Pruden, the president's execu-tive clerk, announced a message from the president, and the secretary of the senate afterward announced the adoption of the conference report on the tariff bill. The Republican side of the house broke into a storm of applause that arose and swept the galieries. The bill was carried to the speaker's rostrum and laid on his desk. Private Secretary Hines handed the speaker a pen, with which Mr. Reed immediately affixed his signature. Mr. Dingley, the floor leader of the majority, then presented from the ways and means committee a resolution for a final adjournment. Mr. Grosvenor (Rep., O.) in replying said that he deemed this a proper occasion to congratulate the country upon the auspicious closing of this congress.

The resolution was then adopted without division, and the speaker laid before the house the special message of the president for a currency commission. The Stone currency commission bill was then taken up and passed, 124 to 99.

MADE TARIFF BILL A LAW.

The President Signed It With a Pen Furnished by Dingley.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The last step in making the Dingley tariff bill the law of the land was taken at the White Honse, when the president affixed his signature, at 4:04 o'clock Saturday.

A few minutes before 4 o'clock Representative Dingley appeared, accompanied by Representative Hager, chairman of the house committee on entolled bills.

They were admitted at once into the presence of Mr. McKinley. The latter was sitting quietly at the long cabinet table, with Secretary Gage and Attor-ney General McKenna on one side and Postmaster General Gary and Secretary Wilson on the other.

He rose and greeted Mr. Dingley and Mr. Hager cordially and proceeded at once to the work of approval. He signed the bill with a pen furnished by Mr. Dingley. The president rose and congratulated Mr. Lingley on the successful ending of his long task, and the members of the cabinet did likewise. Mr. Dingley himself acknowledged with thanks the kind words, and, after putting carefully way his penholder, left the room and the ceremony was at an end.

TALK ABOUT EUROPE.

Highly Interesting Notes Upon Various Topics Social, Political and Military.

At the request of the nizam or king of Haidarabad the British government at Calcutta has officially denied the widely circulated story with regard to the alleged disappearance from the Haidarabad treasury of the famous Mountain of Light diamond. The gem in question, which is of the purest water, weighs 180 carats and was a few years ago the subject of a celebrated lawsuit between Mr. Jacobs, the original of Marion Crawford's "Mr. Isaacs," and the nizam and is still safe in the keeping of the latter, which it has never left since the conclusion of the trial.

The plan of the grand manuvers of the French army, which are to take place in September next, was recently officially announced. The field of operations will be confined to the north, Arras and Douai forming the base on one side, while on the other Soissons and Villers-Cotteret mark the farthest limit. Thus the ground covered is that by way of which Paris has more than once been approached by a real invader, and the movements will reproduce in some degree those of Generals Faidherbe and Farre in 1871.

It is comforting for Americans to learn from the returns lately published by the Journal Officiel at Paris that hearing Bart put up his little $6.60 and not a single citizen of the United States has abandoned his country in order to secure naturalization as a Frenchman during the last 12 months. France acquired no less than 8,037 new citizens by means of naturalization last year. Belgians, Germans, Spaniards, Poles, Russians, Moors, Chinamen and Britons figure among the number, but not a single son of Uncle Sam.

> A new use has been found by the military authorities in Germany for the dogs of war, and Great Danes are now being trained in the various garrisons to attack military cyclists. Wheelmen clad in various uniforms and so protected by padding that they are safe against bites, ride past the dogs, who instantly rush at the men, if costumed as French or Russians, and throw them to the ground. If by any chance the dog should attack a representative of the triple alliance, he is severely whipped, while a reward is given to him when he assails the man who personates an enemy.

Speculation is rife in Europe as to the cause of the astounding percentage of suicides among the medical profession in Russia. In the Muscovite empire the rate of suicide for ordinary mortals is 30 in 1,000,000. But the rate for doctors is no less than 631 in 1,000,000, according to recent official returns. This he had is all the more a matter for concern, as Russia suffers more than any other nation in Europe from a scarcity of medical men.

> The library of the Vatican has just received as a gift from the University of Oxford the 49 volumes of the "Sacred Books of the East," which are the English translations by Professor Max Muller of the liturgical works used by the followers of Buddha and Confucius.

One of the most eminent naval experts in France describes in the Paris Temps the French fleet as a "museum of specimens," owing to the fact that no two vessels are alike. Those now in process of construction represent no less than 21 different types, and it is needless to point out the tactical disadvantages that must inevitably result from dissimilarity in the fighting units of a squadron. The expert likewise points out that if France had received the same value for the money which she has spent on her ships during the last 20 years as England the tonnage of her fleet today would be greater than it is by over 200,000 tons. This conveys a faint idea of the extravagance and mismanagement of the French department of the navy.

China is decidedly getting on and in a vein of progress and of enlightenment, for, according to news received in Londen from Peking, an imperial edict has recently been issued making the teaching of English compulsory in all the higher schools of the leading provinces. This is a reform which has not even been attempted as yet by the Japanese government, although frequently recommended. Japan, indeed, is sadly backward in educational matters. While she is spending colossal sums of money on her army and navy, official returns show that there are close upon 2,000,000 children of school age who are without schools or any educational facilities whatsoever.

The present activity of Vesuvius has been much exaggerated, the volcano being merely in what is known to scientists as a condition of "mild eruption." The lava issuing from the various mouths of the Atrio del Cavallo forms a torrent flowing down the steep side of the new cone formed in that portion of the mountain by recent eruptions and has interrupted the funicular railroad. The main crater, however, shows no signs of activity, and the openings from which the lava issues are relatively small and situated at its base.

Much comment is excited in London by the extraordinarily slow progress made in the construction of the Uganda railroad, which, connecting the great equatorial plateau of Africa and the lake districts with the eastern seacoast, is destined to open up to civilization and to the commerce of the world the whole of the interior of the dark continent. Owing to the red tape and lack of energy of the British foreign office, which has the matter in hand, barely 50 miles of track have been laid, whereas during the same period General Kitchener's men on the upper Nile have managed to lay some 300 miles of track across the desert in the direction of Abn-Hamed. - New York Tribune.

Indian Medicine Bags.

The medicine bags of Navajoes, Zunia and Apaches, all kindred tribes in New Mexico and Arizona, contain a curious powder, known as corn pollen or hoddentin. This powder, which is the pollen of a rush, and also of maize, appears to be used as a medicine, being eaten by the sick and put on the head or other parts to ease pain, but principally as a sacred offering to the sun and moon and as a sanctifier of everything. A pinch of it is thrown toward the sun and then toward the four winds for help in war or the chase, is put on the trail of a snake to prevent harm from it, placed on the tongue of the tired bunter as a restorative, bung in bags round the necks of infants as a preservative and sprinkled on the dead. In fact, every action of these Indians is sanctified by this powder, so that, as Captain Bourke writes in the ninth volume of "The Report of the Bureau of Ethnology" (Smithsonian), "plenty of hoddentin has come to mean that a particular performance or place is sacred."

Captain Bourke shows many analogies to the use of this sacred powder both in the east and among the ancient Greeks and Romans, and it is clear that similar practices with regard to "medicine"-that is, magic-have prevailed everywhere and in all ages, for superstition seems to be the universal heritage of man, so deeply ingrained in his very nature that all the efforts of philosophers and "thirteen" clubs will not avail to root it out. Medicine bags or amulets will continue to be worn openly or secretly not only by the wild Indian and the Kaffir, but by many among ourselves who cling to the beliefs handed down probably from remote prehistoric ages. - Chambers' Journal.

As an indication of the popularity attained very early in her life by Princess Victoria it is interesting to hear that great indignation was expressed all over England when it was known that the child had not been present at her uncle's coronation in 1881. TALK ABOUT EUROPE.

Highly Interesting Notes Upon Various Topics Social, Political and Military.

At the request of the nizam or king of Haidarabad the British government at Calcutta has officially denied the widely circulated story with regard to the alleged disappearance from the Haidarabad treasury of the famous Mountain of Light diamond. The gem in question, which is of the purest water, weighs 180 carats and was a few years ago the subject of a celebrated lawsuit between Mr. Jacobs, the original of Marion Crawford's "Mr. Isaacs," and the nizam and is still safe in the keeping of the latter, which it has never left since the conclusion of the trial.

The plan of the grand manuvers of the French army, which are to take place in September next, was recently officially announced. The field of operations will be confined to the north, Arras and Douai forming the base on one side, while on the other Soissons and Villers-Cotteret mark the farthest limit. Thus the ground covered is that by way of which Paris has more than once been approached by a real invader, and the movements will reproduce in some degree those of Generals Faidherbe and Farre in 1871.

SNAKES OF BOYHOOD.

SOME EXTINCT REPTILIANS THAT HAD MARVELOUS ATTRIBUTES.

The Terrible Blue Racer and the Thousands of Victims He Didn't Get-The Hoop Snake That All Knew of, but Few Ever Saw-Peculiarities of Glass Snakes.

The blue racer was an ophidian calculated to cause the hair of the small boy to stand on end like the quills of the fretful porcupine. Nothing could exceed the fiendish malignity of this snake, whose powers of locomotion were incredibly swift and whose appetite for boy was forever on edge. And it was only by relieving himself of all impedimenta, such as the bucket containing his small store of berries or his fishing tackle and can of bait, that a boy was able to avoid capture. It was the current belief that when the blue racer came up with his prey he swiftly infolded the unlucky wight in his deadly coils, crushed the life out of him and then devoured him at his leisure. So far as history goes and the mortuary records show no boy was ever cut off in the bloom of his youth by a blue racer, but disasters of this kind were only avoided by the remarkable fleetness of foot displayed on such occasions.

His terror gave him supernatural strength and added wings to his feet, and the blue racer was incontinently left in the shade. The blue racer, according to a cloud of youthful witnesses who have testified thereto, was a snake ranging from 11 to 16 feet long, the average length being about 15 feet. Its aspect was threatening in the extreme, and its eyes gleamed with a baleful and hungry light. As it reared its ugly head four or five feet above the surface in search of the trembling youngsters his underside was seen to be of a bright blue color, and from this fact and his swift hovements he received his apt and distinguishing name. Blue racers are as scarce as hens' teeth now.

But the most deadly, the most grewsome and the most appalling snake known to boyhood was the fearful hoop snake, now happily extinct. This scourge of the forest was the bete noire of the urchin, who was continually in mortal terror of encountering it as he wandered through the pleasant woods or angled in the waters of his favorite stream. The hoop snake roamed the darksome shades of the forest like an avenging Nemesis, and, like the blue racer, was always on the lookout for boys. The hoop snake differed uniquely from all other ophidia. When in motion, it was the habit of this snake to insert the end of its tail in its mouth, and, bending its body into a perfect cirharder than steel, in which was concealed a sting of the most venomous description, and woe betide the object that came within striking distance of this fearful weapon. The virus in the tail was far more toxic than the venom of the rattlesnake or the tooth of the copperhead and was synonymous with instant death.

Fortunately no boy was ever stung by one of these snakes. His caution, his prudence and proverbial good luck always enabled him to circumvent the machinations of the enemy, but it required ceaseless vigilance on his part. Indeed, but few boys ever saw one of these reptiles, although we were well aware of their existence. But at rare intervals some youth favored with exceptional eyesight and a vivid imagination would get a glimpse of a hoop snake rolling its way along a distant

Another curious snake that used to interest youthful students of herpetology was the glass snake. As far as its habits were known, the glass snake seemed to exist for the sole purpose of affording fun for the boys, who, when they encountered one of them, hit it across the back with a stick, whereupon his snakeship broke into a thousand pieces, more or less, according to the mathematical proficiency of the boy, and his brittle anatomy flew in all directions. Yet this singular proceeding, while it interested the youthful experimenters greatly, never discommoded the snake, or only temporarily, for as soon as left to itself the parts all united and the snake was whole as before. This invariably happened, but although boys have watched for hours to see the mysterious process the reptile never "got together" until they had departed. Glass snakes are not nearly so common now, nor are they so brittle as they used to be.

One fact in serpent history, however, remains the same in spite of the dicta of scientists, as any boy of today can tell. The tail of a snake will wiggle after it is killed until the sun goes down. There isn't a boy in the whole country but knows this to be a rock ribbed fact in natural history. Learned men tell us that this notion, as they please to call it, is a relic of a far distant time when our ancestors worshiped the sun, which at one time was depicted with serpent attributes. - Chicago Tribune.
